THAT TRIAL.

How It Trails Its Weary Length.

Jurors Called for the Two Hundred and First Time.

A BRIEF SESSION

Fullerton Wen't Examine General Tracy and Beach Absent.

It would have been as well, perhaps better, had the suggestion of Mr. Evarts on Monday afternoon been acted upon and the trial postponed till Wednesday (to-day). The suggestion was made, it will be remembered, upon the announcement of Mr. Beach that he could not attend, as he had a reference case to argue in New York, and it had been prearranged that the cross-examination of Counsellor Benjamin F. Tracy, who was then on the witness stand, should be conducted by him (Mr. Beach). Mr. Fullerton, it had been decided. should not, for personal reasons, sufficiently explicit to the legal fraternity and others, officiate m the capacity of inquisitor while Mr. Tracy was the occupant of the chair. As it was, the habitue's of the trial did not all know this fact, and those who did clung with a tenacity worthy a better sause to the hope that there would be no interruption to the continuity of the contest growing out of any oversensitiveness of "learned brothers" who so honor the Court and each other on their respective sides of the house. Hence it was that between the hours of ten and eleven o'clock the usual retinue of the defendant put in an appear-Ance in the vestibule of the Court House, wended their way up the iron stairway, down along the corridor, and, passing the "Gog" and "Magog" who stand so grimly guarding the entrance to the ball of justice, found their chairs and camp stools in readiness. By half-past ten o'clock, indeed, all the eligible sittings in the apartment were occupied by men and women. Of the latter there was a numerous representation, who chattered, read the papers or looked curiously about them. The sun shone brightly and cheeringly through the windows, gladdening the hearts of and the Court officers busied themselves regulating the shades so as conform the penetrating giances of "Old "Sol," which boidly intruded, to the comfort and convenience of Judge, jury, Bar and press.

Such was the orderly and well regulated position of affairs preliminary to the opening of the proceedings of the ninety-seventh day of the trial of the great scandal of the age. Yesterday was the second day of the seventeenth week of the trial, which actually commenced on Monday, January 11, although the calling of the jurors originally impanelled was begun in the third week of December. It is a remarkable fact, but seldom, if ever, referred to, that death set its stamp early upon the inauguration of the proceedings in this court. When the late Chief Clerk (Mr. Stephen J. Callahan) bad called eighteen of the names of jurors in the panel he was taken suddenly ill, and dled within three days thereafter. Since that period several deaths have taken place among those who were in the habit of attending the trial, including the original panel of 1,000 jurors. Assistant Clerk Prancis A. Mallison, the efficient and courteous right hand man of the presiding Judge in the great cause on trial, has called the names of 3,500 jurors. These figures embrace the calling of the roll of the twelve chosen occupants of the jury box up to yesterday, which occurred 201 times. The numof witnesses examined up to the present is eighty. Of this number sworn and examined the chie's were the plaintiff, the defendant and the "mutual friend" of either or both. There remain yet to be examined for the defence and rebuttal about twenty. None of these latter are expected to take up much time. It is expected that hiss Florence Titton and Mr. Henry C. Bowen will, despite all that is said to the contrary, take their place on the pages of history which will record the testimony of all witnesses in this trial.

Mr. Beecher, in referring to Cierk Maliison's ocoupation in swearing in witnesses, addressed simself to that gentleman the other day, and humorously remarked, "Malnson, you are an awiul swearer;" to which the latter within retorted, "Yes, sir, I make other men swear, 'tis very true; but I didn't succeed in making you swear, Mr. Beecher," The Plymouth pastor smiled at the wittielsin, and Mallison stepped one pace to the rear to indulge his wonted "true inwardness."

Yesterday morning, eight minutes before eleven, Mr. and Mrs. Beecher, accompanied by two of their sons and Mr. Moses S. Beach, whose face is ever wreathed in smiles, entered the court and occupted their usual chairs. The detendant looked rather pale and somewhat auxious, as he had doubtiess been apprised by his counsel that there was an adjournment in prospect, and he has repeatedly asserted that he does not relish these interruptions, as he is weary of the case and eager for its termination. He granced about him with serious expression and freited under the delay which ensued.

Judge Nellson came into Court prompt as ever, and took his seat on the bench a few minutes before the appointed time. Ex-Judge Porter followed soon after, and solitary and alone, unattended by even a junior attorney, came Theodore filton, grim and sallow, loosing anything else than a man of war. He read from a morning journal and looked up from time to time at the clock, wondering, perhaps, whether he has been entirely deserted in his struggle. General B. fracy, the counsel and witness, took his seat apon entering among his contemporaries, and the bands on the dial of time sped round till they marked fifteen minutes past eleven, an unusual telay. The jurors were called and answered to their names. Then Mr. Evarts came into Court, followed by Messrs. Hill, Shearman, Fullerton and Morris. Mr. Fullerton sat down smiling and nodded to the reporters, as is his wont, but failed to bestow a look of recognition upon his client, who sat near him. After a brief conference with Mr. Pullerton Mr. Evarts addressed the Court and

Mr. Morris said:—If Your Honor please, at the commencement of the trial we assigned a different branch of the labor to each counsel: Mr. Fullerton was to take the part of the examination of witnesses, and we forest that the contingency might arise that Mr. Tracy might be made a witness; it was then arranged that Mr. Beach abould examine Mr. Tracy, it not being the desire, for personal reasons, of Mr. Fullerton to do so.

Judge Nellson remarked that he could appreciate the propriety of that arrangement.

THE COMMENAL PROCESSION.

Judge Neison remarked that or could appreliate the propriety of that atrangement.

Mr. Hill then called the witness, J. Francis St.

George, a reporter formerly connected with the New York Standard. Mr. St. George, on being sword, was examined by Mr. Hill, and in answer to the questions put to him, testified:—I have resided in Brooking about thirty-three years;
am a journalist by profession; have been connected with newspapers about seventeen years; I was connected with a New York newspaper in Ducember, 1871; I was a member of the Standard staff, in the capacity of a genstai utulty man; I took notes and made observations of the Commune procession; I was detailed by the managing editor of the paper to write that

I prepared a report of the proceedings for the Standard; I have known Mr. Titton for eight or ten years; I am not intimate with him; I was employed on the Brooklyn Takon when he was editor-ing his connection with it; I recollect to have seen Takedore Titon in the procession on that day; he was riding in a carriage when I saw him; the procession was then on Fith avenue, near Titry-i with stree; Miss Tennie C. Claffin, Mrs. Woodhulf and Colonel Blood were with him in the carriage; knew Colonel Ryan oy appearance; I saw him in the procession; the Colonel was in company with O'Donovan Rossa and two other men; they were seated in another coach; I made a memorandum of the fact, and was very particular to be correct.

Afthe of the Standard was here shown witness, who indicated the report of the procession siluded to by him.

Mr. Fullerton then cross-examined the witness, electing the following replies:—The procession formed in the vicinity of the Cooper Institute: it

Mr. Fullerton then cross-examined the witness, einciting the following replies:—The procession formed in the vicinity of the Cooper Institute; it was in the vicinity of Tard avenue, where a portion of the procession formed; I was standing in front of the Cooper Institute and saw each fresh delegation as they marched up: I did not see each delegation form; I saw a company of colored troops and others march up, and I followed them; I did not get into the line of march with the procession; I walked up as far as Fifteenth street; colored troops formed the head of the procession; I made my observations of the procession; I went from the head to the foot of the procession; I went from the head to the foot of it; I saw Theodore Tilton between Twenteth and Thirty-fourth street; when I got to the tail of the procession it was pretty hear Twenty-fourth street; Mr. Tilton was seated in a coach at the tail end of the procession; I swear positively that Theodore Tilton was in the carriage: I am positive I recognized Miss Jashn and Mrs. Woodhull; Colonel Ryan was in another coach; I can't tell whether there were more than two donces.

Mr. Hill offered to read from the paper the report of the procession, but the Judge said that while the witness had a right to use his notes to refresh his memory he could not say that he made the same. The Court ruled out the question, and Mr. Sc. George stepped down from the witness chair.

Mr. Evarts said they had no more testimony to

Mr. Evarts said they had no more testimony to offer then, and the Court thereupon, it being within fitteen minutes of tweive o'clock, adjourned till eleven o'clock this iorencom.

The object of the desence in showing that Colonel Ryan, the Guban Datriot, who was shot with other Americans taken on the Virginius, was recognized in the Commune procession as well as flitton, is to offset the testimony which the plaintiff will introduce to show that Tilton's identity was conflicted with that of Ryan, they bearing a resumbance to each other.

Almost immediately after the advortment of the Court Mr. Beecher and Mr. Evarts stepped into the nandsome baronche owned by Mr. Jacob Murray, of Flymouth church, which was in waiting for them, and benind a spanking pair of oays counsel and client were driven through the Park and down the Coney Island road.

THE RING SUITS.

There was quite a flutter yesterday among some of the smaller lights in political circles, who knew what it was to laugh and grow fat at the public expense when the "Ring" was in its glory, over a rumor that revelations made by Ingersoll had revealed the operations and "divies" made by the Ring members to small third parties, whose names have never as yet been mentioned in connection nave never as yet been mentioned in connection with the doings of the old Tammany leaders. It was asserted that Intersoir had prepared a statement which has at last furnished a clew to where 2 good deal of the people's money has gone, that the names of persons had been revealed whose influence in this city and at Albany in 1870 and '71 and '72 had been purchased and that the names of some very "respectable" republicans are on the black list. Thorough investigation failed to trace the story to any reliable source.

At the County Clerk's office, where all documents are flied which relate to civil suits of every character, as well as at the Sherin's office, the officials stated that, so far as they were aware, there was no new move in the suits.
Still, there are those who believe that Ingersoll has already made a revelation of some kind which affects parties who have thus far never been suspected of any dealings with the "Ring."

COMMISSIONERS OF EMIGRATION.

The regular meeting of the Commissioners was held resterday afternoon, Mr. George J. Forrest in the chair and all the Commissioners except Messrs Quintard and Mayor Wickbam being present. The resignation of August Wagner, Clerk at Wara's Island, was received and accepted, and a letter of recommendation given to Mr. Wagner. Mr. Lynch stated that he had been unwell and had been unable to attend the committee. The State exacts a bond from the owners of all vessels, which they have a right to commute by the payment of head money. The State imposed no tax on commerce, and the laws of the State have stood the test of time. Marriand has done the same. Massachusetis and Pennsylvania had done likewise. Steamship passenger traffic has grown to an enormous extent since 1847, and the owners are trying to sid the goose that laid the golden egg. Some one in Albany writes a report for the committee and publishes it as the report of the committee and publishes it as the report of the committee. These legislators, it is to be hoped, will not permit them-elves to be trapped by the enemies of the commission.

Mr. Stephenson stated that the commission was not entirely blamcless. It had not carried out the laws as it should. A number of people had been supported without any right. The speaker believed with General Husted, that the communiation tax was unconsitutional. The commission should find out whether the Special Bond act was a law or hot a law. The lorce which was employed in this garque, for five months was just too a law of not a law. The lorce which was employed in this garden for five months was lar too large. On Ward's Island the same want of ecanomy was shown. He desired to test the sense of the committee by moving, inder the act of 1873, he discharge from Ward's Island of 180 and bodied emigrants who were there for two years. Mr. Lynen stated there was no action of the Board necessary as the law was mandatory. The charge of extravagance could not apply to either Mr. Schaek or Mr. Lynen, but must apply to the Commissioners appointed by the Governor. One gentleman, Dr. Henry, who had applied for a position, without salary, had, at the instance of Mr. Stephenson, been voted a large salary. There were mon in the service of the commission who were not needed. It was a cheap way for Mr. Stephenson to cottain glory.

were not needed. It was a cheap way for Mr. Stephenson to obtain glory.

Mr. Stephenson declared that he did not look for glory, out meant to do his duty. He moved to reduce the sainry or all nurses and orderites, except the head nurse at the Lunatic Asylum, to $12 per ments.

Mr. Schack moved its reference to the Ward's

Mr. Schack moved in reference to the listand Committee.

The matter was so referred.
On motion of Mr. Stephenson, it was resolved to direct the Ward's Island Committee to report at the next meeting what reduction in expenses on the island could be made.

Mr. Schack moved to inform the Charities Commission that on the list prox. they would discharge a number of paper emigrants.

Mr. Lynch thought this would be well, for it would inform the people in Albany what state the commission was in.

Air. Starr stated that during the next year there would be not money enough to carry on the busiwould be not money enough to carry on the business of the commission.

The motion of Mr. Schack was carried.

Mr. Lynch stated that of the 20,000 people landed since January 7,224 paid no commutation, thus showing clearly that tairty per cent of the people landed paid nothing to the commission. The passage money was also the same.

The Board then adjourned.

MUNICIPAL NOTES.

Some cays ago the Sheriff levied on the pictures in the Governor's Room at the City Hall to satisfy a judgment for $12,500 obtained against the city in a suit brought by Feodore Meirson and which the Comptroller refused to pay. The case was settled yesterday, the Comptroller agreeing to pay $11,000. The pictures were again levied on yesterday to satisfy small judgments obtained in other suits. An order of arrest has been placed in the hands of the Sheriff against John H. Comer in the civil suit brought against him for the recovery of certain moneys alleged to have been misappropriated by him, Mr. Comer's whereabouts are un-

The Board of Aldermen will hold a special meeting on Saturday, when the Mayor will send in the nes of the gentlemen whom he has selected to fill the vacancies which occur on the 1st of May in the various commissions. Although the Aldermen and others who are directly interested in the nominations resorted yesterday to all sorts of ruses in order to ascertain who the nominees would be, the Mayor refused to give the slightest inkling as to the selections he had made. He did not deny that he had already fixed upon all of them; but to all he had siready fixed upon all of them; but to all callers who tried to pump him on the subject he replied that until the Aliermen met and had the nominations fairly before them he would not divide the names of the lucky men. Speculation is rife as to the probable Police Commissioner, and the Aldermen were considerably exercised during the day over a report that a liberal republican was to be the nominee. Their abxiety on this point was quite needless, as there is no doubt about the act that the gentleman whose name while sent into the Board for condrimation is a regular dived in the wood democrat. Whether his democracy, in a local party sense, is of that kind which will be pleasing to the wart loaders, is quite smoother question. The long agont, at any rate, while a mend by Saturday, and the Aldermen will probably take until the following Thursday to come to a decision as to whether all the nominees are worthy of confirmation.

The Mayor vesterday appointed Mr. William Wood a Commissioner of Educ tion in the place of Mr. Farr, decease 1. Mr. Wood was formerly a member of the Board of Education and a member of the Board of Education and a member of the Board. He is a democrat.

There seems to be some hitch about the selection of the backs which are to become the capositories of the city meness. The law is ely passed by the Legislature gave the power to designate what banks should be the depositories to the Mayor, the City Chamberian and the Compitolic. Attacough three meetings have already been held by these gentlemen to discuss the subject the banks have not see been selected. The hilds, however, Finneral from her late residence. No 11 West.

Although three meetings have afterably teen held by these gentlemen to discuss the subject the banks have not yet been selected. The hitch, however, is not a serious one, as the Mayor believes that the question where the public moners shall be deposited is one that should not be too hastify settled. He doesn't want to have the matter so hurriedly disposed of as to call for repentance at leisure nereafter. There will be another osciling of the three officials to-day.

The Board of Apportionment will meet next Friday, when, it is said, matters of importance that are to come before the Board will give rise to one of the old time field days. At least so say some of the parties interested in the investigation of Comptroller Green's conduct mangurated by the Aldermen.

The flags at the City Hall were at half mast out of respect to the memory of the late School Commissioner Farr, who was buried yesterday.

The Aldermen were in high dudgeon yesterday because they had not been invited to the ceremonies beld at the Cathedral, although they say the Mayor and the heads of departments were. "I tell you what it is," said one of the frate City Fathers, as he togged away at his cigar in a fit of impotent rage, "we have been slighted in this matter, and some day we will have something to say when we are invited to rig up a few lamps in front of the new Cathedral." The Alderman who made this threat doubties lost sight of the fact that Aldermen are nowadays elected for out a year and that the Cathedral may not be roosed for twenty years to come. Still he is young and no doubt hopeful.

THE INDIAN CONTRACTS.

COMMISSIONER SMITH READING THE PROPOSALS FOR THE INDIAN SUPPLIES.

Commissioner Edward P. Smith, of the Indian Department, held his annual reception yesterday, at No. 82 White street. It was largely attended, and the visitors walked up and down and stood in groups discussing the prospects of the coming season, while the Commissioner read out the bids on which they proposed to supply the wants of "Poor Lo." The guests represented nearly every State in the Western part of the Union and were nearly entirely composed of Indian contractors that had come on to New York to make their annual bies for the Indian supplies. The meeting yesterday was one of great importance to many yesterday was one of great importance to many of those present, and glaneing over the faces of some of the bystanders a nervous exettement was plainly visible as the Commissioner read out the proposal of some enterprising contractor who had underbud them a baif cent or so. There were probably two or three hundred present during the early part of the day, and among these were many well known in the Western country as good for a million or over.

Commissioner Smith commenced reading the bids shortly after noon and did not get through many well known in the Western country as good for a million or over.

Commissioner Smith commenced reading the bids shortly after noon and did not get through until after four P. M. As a rule the proposals for dry goods and shoes were lower than usual, and, although some of the bids for the beef contracts were lower than last season, those made by the weil known men were a tride higher. The great difficulty that the Commissioners have to fight against is selecting the wheat from the enail, as in reality that the bids that are offered are really made by men who have no intention of filling the contract, but hope to sell out to some of the large capitalists that they have underbid. A large number of bids were not read, as they were not accompanied by the requisite check of five per cent on the amount of the contract. Others were also refused, as the checks were not drawn on the banks stipulated in the printed regulations issued by the department.

No dennite conclusion was arrived at yesterday, and Commissioner Smith told the Herald reporter that it would be nearly a week before they could settle the matter up.

THE ESTATE OF JAMES FISK.

The case of the objections filed against the accounts filed by Mrs. Fisk as executrix of her hus band's estate came on yesterday for a further hearing before Willard Bartlett, the Auditor appointed by the Surrogate to take testimony in relation thereto. Messrs. Townsend & Weed, representing Miss Mansfield, asked the Auditor if Jay Gould had appeared by counsel, and were answered that Shearman & Sterling had put in such appearance. Miss Mansfield has a judgment against the estate, and claims to nave it included in the account. Mr. Weed said he had served a subpena upon Mr. Gould, and asked the Auditor if he had the power to issue attachments in the cases of non-attending witnesses.

The Auditor said it was an open question. He might have the same powers as a referse in the supreme Court, but in this proceeding he would lay such matters before the Surrogate.

Mr. W. Q. Judge, on behalf of the claim of John H. Comer, Mr. Fisk's private secretary, stated that if the proceedings were to go on he intended to have Mrs. Fisk present. The proceedings were then adjourned. relation thereto. Messrs. Townsend & Weed.
